Another Time, Another Place

Cardiant

While I have seen a thousand mirrors not one will show what I will be And so who is to know what that really means

Name carved in gold maybe someday
But as for now just as before Easy come, easy go, time to get some more

Late in the night one reflection
A pair of eyes always the same Someone thankful for the rain

Image attacks and when the surface cracks
they turn away their gaze
Another time, another place

Too many times of course the mirror lies the tears betray disgrace
but never seen upon a face

While I can feel thousands watching I still decide which light they see and so I can form my own reality

This is the end surely must be as we can see last pages turn but I do wonder what did we learn

Image attacks and when the surface cracks
they turn away their gaze
Another time, another place

Too many times of course the mirror lies
the tears betray disgrace

No, but if I close my eyes then all this will be fine
If I look back in time far behind It's another place and time

I know it's the time
No mirrors will shine
The curtains come down and we bow...

I know it's the time
No reason or rhyme Astray far away so far...
