

Life Has Just Begun

Cardiant

When all my yesterdays are brought together as a picture
The sight I see are all my castles burning When every word is spoken as a would be conqueror

I'm standing still but all the wheels keep turning, oh yeah

Was it really me who went wrong Who made a misstep and lost the sight of all that I could be
And is this really where I belong A shadow lingering in halls growing empty

Do you hear what you are saying Of all the people, you come to beg for sympathy from me
You knew full well what you were doing So many times when you found someone to party

From here on it's a different world
A brand new set of kings and queens Searching for the gold

From here on it's a different world
A brand new tale of hopes and dreams
A rising tide of souls to be sold

Sold, unfold, tales untold...

Forever must I remember
I played and lost, the others won

To decide who to be, should I fight or surrender
A brand new life has just begun, just begun

Masquerade, just a shade, empty voice, a pretender
A brand new life has just begun, just begun

If I was given a chance I would do it all again