

Shooting Star

Cardiant

It's been a while since I realized
Your life would not be in my hands
Still I hoped you'd understand

And I know your life is gold
And time is precious in your plans
Such a highly valued man

I know how it all began
I remember why you ran

There's so much to say
But it will have to wait
The door is here, it's not too late

Everyone must move along
And find their own way down the line
You found yours and I found mine

I was hoping maybe someday
If you might just find the time
And if not then I'll be fine

You, I know I can't confine
All I want is a sign

There's so much to say
But it will have to wait
I hold the weight
Time's not on my side
But one day you'll see straight
And I have faith

Looking back to the dream you once had
Could you now bring it back

It's a sweet, bitter sweet memory
How long now has it been

I will be right here
No matter what your fate
And I restate
There's so much to say
But it will have to wait
The door is here, it's not too late
