

trust issues

Carly Pearce

Already told you 'bout my momma, and she already knows all about you
She don't recognize her daughter with her guard down
Already spending every weekend waking up laying next to you
Already jumping in the deep end, ain't it crazy now?

To ever think I had trust issues in a matter of one kiss, you
Got me turning one night into maybe the rest of my life
Haven't even said I love you, but I'm thinking that I want to
'Cause you're making me forget whoever gave me these trust issues

I'm getting back to never asking where you're going or where you've been Don't have to be holding your hand when some other girls are around
No, I didn't think twice about calling you mine, and baby, it blows my mind

To ever think I had trust issues in a matter of one kiss, you
Got me turning one night into maybe the rest of my life
Haven't even said I love you, but I'm thinking that I want to
'Cause you're making me forget whoever gave me these trust issues

I look in your eyes, and it's almost like
My heart's never been broke before
My only issue is how bad I miss you
Every time you walk out that door

To ever think I had trust issues in a matter of one kiss, you
Got me turning one night into maybe the rest of my life
Haven't even said I love you, but I'm thinking that I want to
'Cause you're making me forget whoever gave me these trust issues

Yeah, you're making me forget whoever gave me these trust issues
