Hold On

Carole King

Heavy chains have been broken
The old ones have spoken
Old young friend of ours
It won't be long until we can touch the stars

Like a quicksilver flash, your liquid light Flows into our hearts and makes us feel allright

Hold on until we can get there You know when we get there All the dark forces will be gone

We need each other now more than ever Our love is the sun--young lord of the light It's a shame that one such as you Should have to walk this cold and lonely night

Hold on until we can get there You know when we get there All the dark forces will be gone
