You Are

Carolyn Dawn Johnson

The sunlight on my shoulders The smile on my face My secret weapon, my favorite place The reason my heart skips a beat The broom that sweeps me off my feet A gentle inspiration My weary soul's salvation The half that makes me whole The gravity that grounds me The arms I want around me Never letting go I've lived I've lived enough To know what is And what's not You are-you are All the love I want to make Every breath I want to take The rush that's running down my spine The touch that takes me every time An innocent seduction Oh I can't get enough and I can't help but let it show I lose all my composure I'm totally exposed and The reason I let go Is I've lived I've lived enough I know what is And what's not You are-you are My every hope

My every hope My every dream You are my everything

I've lived yeah I've lived enough I know what is And what's not You are-you are-you are

The sunlight on my shoulders The smile on my face My secret weapon My favorite place
