

Your Ocean

Carpark North

Where do you dream of going?
Where your wind is blowing
I'll be right here waiting
Watching your world changing
Don't listen to the noise around you
Don't do what you're expected to
Cut the strings that tie you
To someone, somewhere, something you're used to

(Oh) You're gonna grow up, you're gonna grow up soon
(Oh) Your life's ahead, take the step, now
(Oh) You're gettin' older, you're gonna grow new roots
(Oh) You're movin' on, soon you're gone

And I wish you well
And I wish you hope
There will be some hard times
There will be some dark skies
No matter what they say
You will find your way
And I hope that your dreams are never broken

When did I close my eyes?
And stop to recognize
My place, this face
These eyes that tell me some things are too late
How did you learn to swim?
When did you start to dream?
Nothing's holdin' you back now

Oh, and I wish you well
And I wish you hope
There will be some hard times
There will be some dark skies
No matter what they say
You will find your way
And I hope that your dreams are never broken, yeah
Ah
Ah, uh

Now it's time, I let go
'Cause only you can cross your ocean
And I wish you well
And I wish you hope
There will be some hard times
There will be some dark skies
No matter what they say
You will find your way
And I hope that your dreams are never broken
Now it's time, I let go
'Cause only you can cross your ocean
