

Sanctimonious

Casey

Oh tell me moon
In eclipse do you breathe a sigh of relief?
A moment of intimacy

So if ever comes the day when I awake without
Your pretty name upon my fragile tongue
I'd spite the God
Who saw fit to neglect me of the bliss
Of a peaceful death in ignorance of losing love
Sanctimonious

But if in each of us is a world created
Then even when we're separated
You belong to me, and I to you
We exist inside each other now forever

So even after we depart
To transition unto another lifetime
If I were deaf and you non-verbal
In a world devoid of light, I would find you
Even in the darkest spaces
I swear to love you no less than I do now
Forevermore, until the end of time
You belong to me, and I to you

You belong to me, and I, I belong to you
We exist inside each other now forever
You belong to me, and I, I belong to you
We exist inside each other now forever

Cause if ever comes the day when I awake without
Your pretty name upon my fragile tongue
I'd kill the God
Who saw fit to neglect me of the bliss
Of a peaceful death in ignorance of losing love
Sanctimonious
