

Without You

Cashmere Cat

Without you, without you
Without you, without you
Without you, without you
Without you, without you, without you

Nobody's ever woke up in my bed
I usually wake in someone else's
And you look like an angel, I'm runnin' through the window
And you're all I need
Nobody's made me feel this emotion
Drowning in my love like an ocean
Now every time you're gone, I get anxious
I am lost but getting clear...

Without you, without you, without you, without you
Without you, without you, oh, without you
Without you, without you, without you, without you
Without you, without you, oh, without you, without you
Without you, without you, without you, without you
Without you, without you, oh, without you
Without you, without you, without you, without you
Without you, without you, oh, without you, without you