

Not Enough

Caskets

You're not the type of person that would stand alone
You think it's not your fault
These dreams are tearing, stich by stich
Will you be fine and learn to live with it
Would you become the person that you thought you was
Would you hold on to life, just like you thought you could
In the end there's no thought that you are losing sight

Alias see you're drowning I'm thinking
It's not enough that your dreams are sinking
Despite your efforts you're still chasing the life line
You give it all you got, you're just not doing it right

You're not the type of person that would give their all
You just lose all control
But if I told you in confidence, that I could help
Would you still help yourself

You're getting older and older
And you still don't know the things that I've been through
You're getting weaker and weaker
Will you help your own, what's the worst you can do

Alias see you're drowning I'm thinking
It's not enough that your dreams are sinking
Despite your efforts you're still chasing the life line
You give it all you got, you're just not doing it right

Words could be deceitful and turn into a lie
But you've only got yourself to blame
This time

You only got yourself to blame
You only got yourself to blame
You only got yourself to blame
(It's all I know)
You only got yourself to blame
(Blame it on yourself)
