

Prayer for Another Day

Cass McCombs

I want to live in a magic mirror
In the real world
Full of rain
I will

I want to live in a day like today
But not today
I will

When the city is silent
And we wake up to the rain
Alone together in a strange bed

When nothing is preserved
And nothing is agreed upon
And everything is silent
And wind rushes through paper
I will

Listen, through a magic mirror
In the real world
Another day, that's just like today
Full of rain, just like this rain
That is silent, just like this
I will