

Four Leaf Clover

Cassyyette

Walk under a ladder
Step on all the cracks, don't
Break your mother's back, four leaf clover
Did I break a mirror?
'Cause this summer feels like winter
And I'll lose to my head to get over

Losing you so I keep drinking to forget
Finding you in places I never expect

And it feels
Like I had nine lives but I've lost eight of mine
Does it heal?
I go on with life but I'm running out of time
Over, over

You're the bird at my window
Leaving feathers on my pillow
Thank you for the four-leaf clover
You gave me a lifeline
Now my sheets are stained with red wine
Swear I'll do my best to get sober

And it feels
Like I had nine lives but I've lost eight of mine
Does it heal?
I go on with life but I'm running out of time

I'm the luckiest
The luckiest girl in the world
To get to have you
So lucky 'cause I knew you
I'm the luckiest
The luckiest girl in the world
To get to have you
So lucky 'cause I knew you

I just need a wish
I'm throwing salt over my shoulder
That I'd wake up from a dream
And all this sadness would be over
You know I'd give anything
For a day or a moment
But now we're in October
And I'm still not getting over

And it feels
Like I had nine lives but I'm running out of time

I'm the luckiest
The luckiest girl in the world
To get to have you
So lucky 'cause I knew you
I'm the luckiest
To get to have you
So lucky 'cause I knew you
