

Clear Blue Water

Cast

It feels like everyone is trying to live their life so fast
Don't you ever wanna make the moment last
Don't let the embers turn to ash
And though sometimes I hear you when you're talking to yourself
When no one listens to your silent cries for help
Or feels the heartache that you bear

Like a stone into the lake
There's a storm that's yet to break
Overhead I hear the sound of love's clear water raining down
Raining down to quench my thirst
Till the riverbanks they burst
Overflowing in my soul, gonna take you where the water goes
Love's clear blue water
Love's clear blue water
Love's clear blue water

Do you remember who it was you used to be
And how it always felt like you were so unique
Before the world let up your dreams
Although it sometimes feels like you have lost something so rare
You used to live your life without a single care
Free of any misery

Like a stone into the lake
There's a storm that's yet to break
Overhead I hear the sound of love's clear water raining down
Raining down to quench my thirst
Till the riverbanks they burst
Overflowing in my soul, gonna take you where the water goes
Love's clear blue water
Love's clear blue water
Love's clear blue water

All that is lost you'll find again
All through the years, until the very end
So take the world where waters run
Clear and blue

Like a stone into the lake
There's a storm that's yet to break
Overhead I hear the sound of love's clear water raining down
Raining down to quench my thirst
Till the riverbanks they burst
Overflowing in my soul, gonna take you where the water goes
Like a stone into the lake
There's a storm that's yet to break
Overhead I hear the sound of love's clear water raining down
Raining down to quench my thirst
Till the riverbanks they burst
Overflowing in my soul, gonna take you where the water goes
Like a stone into the lake
There's a storm that's yet to break
Overhead I hear the sound of love's clear water raining down
Raining down to quench my thirst
Till the riverbanks they burst
Overflowing in my soul, gonna take you where the water goes

Like a stone into the lake
There's a storm that's yet to break
Overhead I hear the sound of love's clear water raining down
Raining down to quench my thirst
Till the riverbanks they burst
Overflowing in my soul, gonna take you where the water goes