City On the Hill

Casting Crowns

Did you hear of the city on the hill Said one old man to the other It once shined bright, and it would be shining still But they all started turning on each other

You see the poets thought the dancers were shallow And the soldiers thought the poets were weak And the elders saw the young ones as foolish And the rich man never heard the poor man speak

But one by one, they ran away With their made up minds to leave it all behind And the light began to fade In the City on the Hill, the City on the Hill

Each one thought that they knew better But they were different by design Instead of standing strong together They let their differences divide

And one by one, they ran away With their made up minds to leave it all behind And the light began to fade In the City on the Hill, the City on the Hill

And the world is searching still

But it was the rhythm of the dancers That gave the poets life It was the spirit of the poets That gave the soldiers strength to fight It was fire of the young ones It was the wisdom of the old It was the story of the poor man That needed to be told

It is the rhythm of the dancers That gives the poets life It is the spirit of the poets That gives the soldiers strength to fight It is fire of the young ones It is the wisdom of the old It is the story of the poor man That's needing to be told

But one by one will we run away With our made up minds to leave it all behind As the light begins to fade in the City on the Hill

One by one will we run away With our made up minds to leave it all behind As the light begins to fade in the City on the Hill The city on the hill

(Come home)
And the Father's calling still
(Come home)

To the city on the hill (Come home)
