

Never

Cataract

Never will they consider you as a part of this through dull windows they will judge your life scream out your rising pain all the suffer you have been neglecting tear down their rusty chain all the walls the have been protecting never will they let you show your own face from their throne they will detest your life From their side only unending disguise from their nothing left for your demise It's not what you do It's what you are that they attack

scream out your rising pain
all the suffer you have been neglecting
tear down their rusty chain
all the walls the have been protecting