

Avalanche

Cavetown

Started an avalanche, bones have fallen into space
After you screamed, the snow began to slip away
After tomorrow nothing's gonna be the same
You've got your world on your shoulder and its here to stay

Let the mountain fall this place is empty anyway
Let it echo on as if you're proud of what you did today
After tomorrow I'll be somewhere far away
Do you regret it at all?

Tangerine clouds compliment the colours in your face
The moon is cold but it looks so pretty on the ice
You don't care if I say I love you a thousand times
Try not to regret it all

Its quiet now and the snow is burying your toes
Now as it falls you catch a star-drop on your nose
Is this a dream or is this where all the ghosts go
I won't regret this at all

Are you happy? Please tell me you are
Because that's all I care about anymore
Can you hear me? I'll play my guitar
For you until the storm is over, we'll have a new start