

I thought I needed some space to myself
But now I'm here alone I realise I need someone else
But it's too late, I feel like it's too late to change my mind
I can't think straight
I froze some lava and I put on my ice skates

Is it too late
Show me it's not too late give me a sign
I'm running out of time
Is it okay
Or is it just the medication running through my veins making things seem alright