Cynical

Show me a lie and I'll show you a vein Open your heart and I'll do the same Tear it apart and blow it away You're caught in the eye of a hurricane The only words you need to find The only dreams you leave behind Every night it's the same old masquerade

The love the lie that leads you someday The love the lie that leads you someday You're so cynical You're so cynical You need to find a way to let go

Show me a lie and I'll show you a vein Open your heart and I'll do the same Tear it apart and blow it away You're caught in the eye of a hurricane All the lies we live to tonight Always find their way inside Every night it's the same old masquerade

The love the lie that leads you someday The love the lie that leads you someday You're so cynical You're so cynical You need to find a way to let go Oh the dreams will never die

The love the lie that leads you someday The love the lie that leads you someday You're so cynical You're so cynical You need to find a way to let go

The love the lie that leads you someday The love the lie that leads you someday You're so cynical You're so cynical You need to find a way to let go Cavo