

Black is the Colour

Celtic Woman

Black is the colour of my true love's hair her lips are like some roses fair she has the sweetest face and the gentlest hands
and I love the ground where on she stands

I love my love and well she knows I love the ground where on she goes and how I wish the day would come when she and I can be as one

Black is the colour of my true love's hair
her lips are like some roses fair
and the gentlest hands
and I love the ground where on she stands
I love the ground where on she stands

Black is the colour of my true love's hair her lips are like a rose so fair
she has the sweetest face
and the gentlest hands
and I love the ground where on she stands
I love the ground where on she stands
I love the ground where on she stands
