

Crash

Chad Brownlee

It's six thirty-five
Half asleep half alive
Just another day

Life's like a red light
Sometimes it feels like
You will never change

The same road to nowhere
The same faces passing me by
I couldn't have planned it
To be so distracted
By your eyes and

Crash
Like a train through a house of glass
Like stars falling right where I'm at
Like a tidal wave washes away the past
Ooh crash

Feeling so numb
So afraid so undone
Is this just a dream

Standing in circles
No grip on this world
And all I can do is believe

You just tried to hold it
But you can't control it
When love makes you

Crash
Like a train through a house of glass
Like stars falling right where I'm at
Like a tidal wave washes away the past
Ooh crash

Were running on two separate paths
Right when we thought there was nothing left
Life took our breath away so fast

Oh
Like two lives colliding
Like something was guiding
Us all the way
Without even trying
The world has decided
To make our paths

Crash
Like a train through a house of glass
Like stars falling right where I'm at
Like a tidal wave washes away the past
Ooh crash
Were running on two separate paths

Life took our breath away so fast yeah
Life took our breath
Away so fast
Ooh crash
Ooh crash
