

Inside The Molecules

Chad VanGalen

I wake up early in the afternoon- just so I can call 'em as I see 'em coming. I can't remember when I felt so good, baby, since I met you. Baby since I met you. And it's crazy how you've gotta work so hard just to get a little bit of action. When it's all over and there's nothing but the feeling we'll be living on inside the molecules. Hey! My eyes aren't working right now, but I'm going to see my baby any day. And I was hoping when I finally see you, could you hold me to the light? Let those beams shine in and through you. Let those beams shine through me too.

I wake up early in the afternoon- just so I call 'em as I see 'em coming. I can't remember when I felt so good, baby, since I met you. Baby since I met you.
