

From Today

Charles Aznavour

From today, I never more will say I love you
From today, my road will take a different turning
So many chances are behind me
So many words I cannot mend

From today, our journey to the stars is over
From today, our castles in the air are burning
The dream that all began so sweetly
Has brought us to the bitter end

From today
Never more will our song be sung
As it was when the world was young
And when our love was new and splendid
From today
As the memories start to fade
All the miracles we have made
All are ended from today

From today, I try to live without confusion
From today, I try forgetting all about you
Too many words remain unspoken
Now there is nothing left to say

From today, I'll walk away from disillusion
From today, I'll wander through the world without you
Our little house of cards is broken
I have no numbers left to play

From today
Never more will our song be sung
As it was when the world was young
And when our love was new and splendid
From today
As the memories start to fade
All the miracles we have made
All are ended from today

From today
