

Different Spaces

Charlie Cunningham

He did what he'd been told, feels like somebody owes him
There's a light inside his soul, if only someone had shown him

He's taken a bow, he's looking around
Different spaces, a higher ground
You blink and you've past it, so live ever last bit
Never stopping, just fading out

She's not looking for someone to tell he what she already knows
She's been put through her paces and she's gone through the motions
But said and done they both know
Someone should have rung an alarm
Offering the smallest side of steps, push them out of harm

She's taken a bow
She's moving around
Different spaces, a higher ground
You blink and you've passed it, so live every last bit
Never stopping, just fading out

There's only so much further we can go
Used to be so much closer than we are right now though
Until our world slows down, stops revolving around us how can we rebound?
Start putting the fires out

He's taking a bow
He's Looking around
Difference spaces, a higher ground
You blink and you've passed it, so live every last bit
Never stopping, just fading out
She's taken her bow, she's moving around
Different spaces, a higher ground
You blink and you've past it, so live every last bit
Never stopping, just fading out
