

Tonight

Charlie Robison

Where are you going
They say you never know
But I remember laughing
Wherever I'd go
A flirt or a flame or a friend or a fight

Can't come home now Mom
Cause anything might happen tonight

Well, your eyes are on fire
You get a beer and a smoke
Your gut hurts from laughing at some dirty joke
That you really shouldn't tell cause you know it ain't right
But you can't help but feeling
Like anything might happen tonight

Well, a kiss and a whisper in the back of my car
Collecting young girls just like fireflies in a jar
Your glass is all empty cause her wings took flight
So fill 'er up good Joe cause anything might happen tonight

And there's beer on my breath as I lean toward your ear
I try not to yell but you can't hardly hear
I close my eyes try with all of my might
Can you remember that feeling
Like anything might happen tonight

Well, now who is that girl with the red dress on
She makes me remember back when I was young
And I'd give anything for just a little more moonlight

Can't come home now mom
Cause anything might happen tonight
Tonight
Oh, tonight
Tonight
Oh, tonight
