I wanna run so bad
But it wouldn't be fair, babe
It's been a couple of years and I'm going through changes
In the city of sunburnt angels
They say watch your back
I would give it all up if it wasn't so sacred
I'm just going through

I was only sixteen, when I found out
I was all on my own
All the colour turns grey, when you can't be what you've never seen before
And now I'm looking right past all the moments
When I shoulda' been there
If I could tell young C. where the key lands
She would put it in the air
When I was going through
