

Streetlight

Chef'Special

It's kinda like that every night that I
Close my eyes I know it's time for my big suprise
You hidin at daylight but shinin at night like a streetlight
Like a streetlight...
Reaches my eyesight
But yo it's somethin in the air I just can't describe
Somethin that I can't understand and why
Is u gone everytime that I open my eyes
Cus it's all my fantasy
That makes it so much better baby can't u see
Try to do ye best to remember me
I'll do my best to forget you're a fantasy
And it's gettin pretty difficult to get you out my brain
And if I ever let that happen then I'ma never be the same
Share the sunshine with me, share the rain
Share it all before we enter the day
I know deep down that somethin isn't right
It's the magic of the night
Your name is written on my soul but
I only meet you when I go to sleep
Now will it ever be?
Will it ever be reality
Cus what the hell does it matter if I just keep tellin
Myself that we together whether that's in my head
Or whatever just forget them facts, try to relax
Your picture in my head that I can't neglect
I can't reject, that's why I won't accept
That your a dream and fake scene, babe either way
If that's true then I'll just, dream all day
Close my eyes, let it go, let you lead my way
Cus girl, ye so divine
And I'm thinkin will it ever end, over time
Cus it's that weird contradiction, of wrong and fine
I'm thinkin: fine, forget wrong, all the time!
I know deep down that somethin isn't right
It's the magic of the night
Your name is written on my soul but
I only meet you when I go to sleep
Now will it ever be?
Will it ever be reality