

92 & Raining

Chemical Vocation

Look out the window
You made your way into the line
No pain, no gain
And we're the ruins of your lies

It seems to be shining
But it's just fortune passing by
No shame, it's your game
And we're just puppets on your string

This one's for all of you who steps into the light
And make your way without a fight

I gave everything I had
Tried to make it work for them
And all that's left is empty yearning

You seem to be smiling
But it's just moments passing by
There's no way in hell
You'll ever be a part of this

Maybe we're just here because you said
I make you feel like someone's always there

This one's for all of you who steps into the light
And make your way without a fight

I gave everything I had
Tried to make it work for them
And all that's left is empty yearning
And if you would ever stop to think
You'll make the same mistake again
You can't escape this heavy burden

It's 92 and raining