

He Thinks I Still Care

Cher

Just because I asked a friend about him
Just because I spoke his name somewhere
Just because I rang his number by mistake today
He thinks I still care

Just because I haunt the same old places
Where the mem'ry of him lingers everywhere
Just because I'm not the happy girl I used to be
He thinks I still care

But if he's happy thinking I still need him
Then let that silly notion bring him cheer
But how could he ever be so foolish
Oh, where would he get such an idea

Just because I asked a friend about him
Just because I spoke his name somewhere
Just because I saw him then went all to pieces
He thinks I still care
He thinks I still care
He thinks I still care
He thinks I still care
