Milord

Come on get wise, Milord Her lips tells lies, Milord The girl that you adore Has found another guy She just got bored, Milord Now you're ignored, Milord Deep down inside your pride Won't let you say goodbye That southern belle, Milord Has got a heart of ice Love can be done, Milord As well as paradise

You met her at a bar Her lips were ruby red Her lazy southern draw Soon turn your noble head You swore you never part Though you live far away How could you know a heart Like other hearts would stray

Come on get hip, Milord And let life rip, Milord Be sure there's plenty more Of loving to be done There, just to meet, Milord With lips as sweet, Milord And hearts to make and break Before the race is run So hit the town, Milord Come on and be my guest We'll turn it upside down And devil takes the rest

The story is the same Whenever young love grows And no one is to blame It's just the way it goes You're not the first who's found That love can be unkind And still the world goes round But one heart's left behind Cher
