

Do I (Where We Are)

Cherub

Hold onto whatever's left, my foot on the edge.
I'm ashamed of what I might do, despite all that we've been through.
I can feel the pressure in my chest.
Ah, my jaws cave in.
I don't know anymore, there's no love anymore

Cause the times are changing for us, for us

Do I make it hard for you sometimes? I promise I'll apologize,
yeah

Do I make it hard for you to smile? You take it all, too personal, yeah

The water is too deep to stand, so you're stuck on land.
I'm floating further from you, yeah, off to somewhere brand new
We forgot we ever had a chance, so this is the end.
There's no love anymore, but I don't care anymore

Cause the times are changing for us, for us

Do I make it hard for you sometimes? I promise I'll apologize,
yeah

Do I make it hard for you to smile? You take it all, too personal, yeah

You'll never change, you'll always stay the same.
I often contemplate if this is what the games that we have played, yeah.
Cause we make the same mistakes and we both are to blame.
So I'm moving on, gone for good.
It makes me sad, but I did feel those, so you won't feel like you're stuck.
Wondering when is there love? Where is our love? Is our love?
