

Been trying so hard to find something new and just when I think that the something is you

I fall down again and I don't want to be picked up
I think I'll stay, right here where it's safe

I didn't look back when I started to run
And when I arrived I wished I never begun

I fall down again and I don't want to be picked up
I think I'll stay, right here where it's safe

Been down this road before and I can't ignore the ways out for sure but I
I think I'll stay this time, content am I with laying down right here

Just give me a pen and a photo of you and I'll sing you lines about the dreams I pursue But don't be deceived by the things that aren't true
I'm only as much as I actually do

I fall down again and I don't want to be picked up
I think I'll stay, right here where it's safe

And so my story goes
I'll use this smile so nobody knows

I fall down again and I don't want to be picked up
I think I'll stay, right here where it's safe

I fall down again and I don't want to be picked up
I think I'll stay, right here where it's safe