

Safer Harbours

Chicago

All the ships in all the harbours
Waiting for our sons and daughters
To carry them away

And weighing anchors from the shoreline
We will loose the ties that love binds
With our hearts full on that day

The winds will carry them away
To safer harbours
There is a destiny we pray
Where calmer waters
Will turn the tide to moon-lit skies
Oh life is sweet there
No tears will fill the salt air
Our dreams will yet arrive
In safer harbours

In the distant early morning
The seas of fate are warming
To our legacy of hope

And as youthful souls awaken
Blessed with promise not forsaken
Sunlight dance upon the waves
For all their days

The winds will carry them away
To safer harbours
There is a destiny we pray
Where calmer waters
Will turn the tide to moon-lit skies
Oh life is sweet there
No tears will fill the salt air
Our dreams will yet arrive
In safer harbours

The winds will carry them away
Our sons and daughters
There is a destiny we pray
Where calmer waters
Will turn the tide to moon-lit skies
Oh life is sweet there
No tears will fill the salt air
Our dreams will yet arrive
Our dreams will yet arrive
In safer harbours

Oh...
