

Turning Point

Chin Up, Kid

If you could have seen this coming
Would you be set running
I'm not the only one who you set up
Because you always needed something
And all along I swear you went behind my back
I was right not even once again will I overreact

This is the turning point we can't go back to the start
I'll never be destroyed, I'm only here to do my part
You can try me, try to win your game
This is inspiring so now we'll go our separate ways

I never thought I'd make it this far
This is what I wanted and
Not too long after the start
You got what you want
Now I'm gone
And you'll keep trying, while I'm lying
To get myself out of this mess
You're full of shit, well I'm trying my best

I won't be thinking back on all the things that couldn't last
This bond we shared was bound to fade away into the past
And I'm not here I kept my soul and left your misery behind
Every broken memory and anything of yours I find