

Kiss You Where You Lay

Chris Trapper

Well, I got the time, you got the money the lights are dim somethings buzzing around here Ain't it a beautiful life but if we don't stop talking we'll miss our train tonight

Well, you're on a roll, I can't interrupt you Those words come slow I know it upsets you my dear but it was yesterday's fight So from the corner booth I watch the trains's taillights

She says "All I needed was to know his kiss is more than just a kill
'Cause conquering me is never easy I fear nobody will

So bartender won't you make it a double to get up the nerve is my biggest trouble lately I keep it inside my coat
But I know I just can't let this moment go

The beer signs paint red lines on the table

I'd kiss her if she were willing, able or free You'd see me down on my knees saying "I'd leave him now if it was up to me"

'Cause all I need is to know your heart's hung on your sleeve like mine
'Cause last glance romance and desperate dances left me out to dry
There will be a last time

So back from the bar up into your bedroom You ask if my heart is bound to forget you or crash
What if I never come back?
So I walk all the way home down the old train tracks

For I'd do anything to prove my love for you is not on stage
The dream where I live will float where you live and kiss you where you lay-->
