

Angela

Chuck Ragan

Church bells may ring
Through the pines as they sway
The bluebirds don't sing
Covered in rain with the sun
Time slips away
We're growing older each day
There's not much to say
The words won't roll off of your tongue

Somewhere right now
There's a girl who is wonderin' how
Somewhere right now
There's a woman who can't find a way out
For now

So how can this be
The cruel at the scene
The cowardly greed
To take what they think they should own
Well, it's not your fault
You've done nothing wrong
I know that you're scared
And that you don't feel safe in your home

Somewhere right now
There's a girl who is wonderin' how
Somewhere right now
There's a woman who can't fight her way out
For now

Oh, Angela
You're not alone come on out

Take these words home
Take 'em to heart
Know that the pain
Won't end 'til you start on your own
So get up, be afraid
Or even terrified
Of the evil men do
Use that to make up your mind

Somewhere right now
There's a girl who knows how you feel now
Somewhere right now
There's a woman who has fought her way out
Right now

Oh, Angela
Where are you now
Oh, Angela
Yeah, you're not alone come on out
Yeah, you're not alone come on out
Yeah, you're not alone
