

Be Alone

Ciaran Lavery

It's taken thirty one years
I know what I know
I've worn many masks
I hate all of my clothes
I should be alone
I would be alone
It might look like I'm movin'

Like I got somethin' on
But you'd be mistaken
To believe I'm a pawn
I should be alone
Aye, I should be alone

If your love isn't worthy
You're such a kind soul
There's no need to worry
I'm as dark as they come
You should be alone
Aye, you should be alone

'Cause maybe I'll break your heart
God knows that I can
You'll break mine
And we'll both understand
We should be alone
Aye, we should be alone

They can't find a cure
For what's making me ill
Lord knows I'm a fake
And I can't get a thrill
I should be alone
Aye, I should be alone

I woke up last night
Couldn't find my phone
I didn't sleep a wink
For the fear of bein' alone
I can't be alone
I reach up to the heavens
And I ask for a sign
But there's nothin' there
When I open alone
I should be alone
Lord tells me I should be alone
