

Carry On

Cimorelli

You thought I'd lay here and go cold
Guess you don't know me at all
After I clean up the mess you made
I'll get up and walk

If you could I know you would have
Taken the blood from my veins
And I wonder does it haunt you
When you close your eyes to pray

How do you live with yourself
And all the lies that you tell
While you're wishing me well

You think you've broken me down
Tried to burn me alive
But all things done in the dark will always come to the light
Act like you're so innocent
But we both know who you are
I'll take the knife out of my back
And I carry on
I carry on

I know you wish I would break down
My silence cuts to the bone
It's just a matter of time now
Until you reap what you sow

If you could I know you would have
Taken the blood from my veins
And I wonder are you happy
After everything you did

How do you live with yourself
And all the lies that you tell
While you're wishing me well

You think you've broken me down
Tried to burn me alive
But all things done in the dark will always come to the light
Act like you're so innocent
But we both know who you are
I'll take the knife out of my back
And I carry on
I carry on
I carry on

I lost my voice but when I couldn't speak
I whispered everything
I stayed up all night putting pieces back
And when I couldn't walk I crawled
Until I stood up tall
Lifted my eyes up off the ground
And through it all I carried on
I carried on
I carried on

I carried on through every storm
I carried on I never stopped
I carried on
