

I'm So Blue

Cimorelli

Ice cold Coke on the counter
You like your coffee black
So beautiful boy it's not fair
You throw your head back and laugh

Checkerboard floors
And grocery stores
Sun sinking low, it reflects on the door
Purple in the skies
And home is in your eyes
You showed me something more and you changed my mind

I'm so blue
But something about you
I could stay here forever
Fifty degrees in your sweater

Tire tracks on the driveway
You hold my hand tight
Crucifix on a gold chain
Your eyes look like the moon tonight

Something so rare
With you I'm not scared
Passenger seat in the thick summer air
And things change
But I knew you would stay
I looked up and suddenly everything was okay

Hearts on my window pane
You take my breath away
I never wanna leave this place

You move something inside
Like the moon moves the tide
I never wanna say goodbye

I'm so blue
But something about you
I could stay here forever
Fifty degrees in your sweater

I'm so blue
But something about you
I could stay here forever
Fifty degrees in your sweater
