

Somewhere

Circle II Circle

Aware in silence
Listening to the echoes of your voice
Play inside my memory
Like moving stories
Flashing scenes of my life in a play
I see it right in front of me
Will I ever know the ending

Endless yearning
For something never meant to be discovered
Never to be seen
And in that moment
You will find that nothing has true meaning
The journey has no end

Somewhere
When it seems your life is bleeding
You become aware
That the voices are misleading
And you realize
With the darkness there is healing
There will be a time
When you find a deeper meaning
To it all

Misconceptions are truth in disguise
Stealing your life all those thoughts hypnotize
Running around but the damage is done
Chasing so hard but you can't overcome
The walls created in your mind
Don't be afraid of the chances at stake
You better take them before it's too late
Surrender the war that you're fighting
Because it doesn't matter anymore

Somewhere
When it seems your life is bleeding
You become aware
That the voices are misleading
And you realize
With the darkness there is healing
There will be a time
When you see it's out there waiting for you

Somewhere
When it seems your life is bleeding
Things can turn around
And give everything new meaning
And you realize
That there's always something waiting
You can see it now
When you find a deeper meaning to it all
To it all