

Witch's Game

Cirith Ungol

Deep within the sacred mountain, past the death and ancient stones

Sit before the evil Eydis, as she begins to roll the bones

Trapped within the Witch's Game, forced to live her wicked dream

She plays the card of the warrior, as you hear the fallen scream

Ride into the battle, death my willing slave

Ride into the battle, begin the Witch's Game

Oh, what can this be, deaths harem calling for me

Can this much pleasure, be this much pain, or am I finally going insane?

All is shattered, a crashing from above, as our senses melt away

The Witch continues with her evil, another roll, another card, another play

Now the Witch has played the card, a pack of demons, yellow eyes agleam

Just one way to end this nightmare, take a step inside the dream

Ride into the battle, death my only name

Ride into the battle, play the Witch's Game

Our last vision now beneath the sea, where the scorned black idols lie

Card of death and now the dragon strikes, the ancient sword soon by our side

Now we're heading from the horror, and our eyes are filled with flame

Standing strong and undefeated, can we escape the Witch's Game

Ride into the battle, death my willing slave

Ride into the battle, begin the Witches Game

Ride into the battle, death my only name

Ride into the battle, play the Witches Game