Irreplaceable

Citizen Soldier

I know you're staring down, straight down the barrel now
Ready to die (ready to die)
You don't see no other way, you can't take another day
Of being alive
I know you hate yourself but that doesn't change
What is written down in your DNA
'Cause you're one of a kind, and you're here by design
Someday you'll see it if you stay

You're a diamond in the darkness
Find purpose in your pain
Walk the wire, face your fire
Someone will need your strength
You're irreplaceable, your days in hell
Are gonna be your glory
You're irreplaceable, there's no one else
That can write your story

You may not believe it now, it's so hard to see just how
You matter at all
You just wanna disappear, take all you've been building here
And just let it fall
I know you hate your life but that doesn't change
The words that you might write, the lives that you might save
You choose how misery's defined, so take this song as a sign
And make your pain your saving grace

You're a diamond in the darkness
Find purpose in your pain
Walk the wire, face your fire
Someone will need your strength
You're irreplaceable, your days in hell
Are gonna be your glory
You're irreplaceable, there's no one else
That can write your story

When no one knows the hell you've been through
That doesn't change that there's only one you
That every scar, every mark, every bruise
Gives you a heart that understands someone's abuse
Sometimes life will leave you black and blue
So you can learn to stand in someone else's shoes

You're irreplaceable, your days in hell
Are gonna be your glory

You're a diamond in the darkness
Find purpose in your pain
Walk the wire, face your fire
Someone will need your strength
You're irreplaceable, your days in hell
Are gonna be your glory
You're irreplaceable, there's no one else
That can write your story
You're irreplaceable
You're irreplaceable, there's no one else
That can write your story
