

The Space

Citizen Way

I remember the feeling of lost and not found
Like trying to run when dreaming

I remember the first time it all just made sense
When the dam finally broke inside me

And it takes me away
Like a tide to shoreline

Like rain washes over the thirsty
Like sunlight chases the shade
With every breath you remind me
How I love the way that you fill in the space

And on the roadside to healing are moments of shame
When the mirror is all too revealing
But then I think of the journey
And even the scars and not enough to abandon the ending

Like rain washes over the thirsty
Like sunlight chases the shade
With every breath you remind me
How I love the way that you fill

A heart at peace brings life to these bones
A longing fulfilled is sweet to the soul
I was a dead man desperate for life
I was but now I'm alive

Like rain washes over the thirsty
Like sunlight chases the shade
With every breath you remind me
How I love the way that you fill in the space
You fill in the space
