

All Right

Citizens

In a lonely garden, searching for the words to say
So many moments missed, waiting for a little rain
Paralyzed by rejection that I'm so convinced is there

Well, I'm not right, no I'm not all right

See a break in the morning, still I cover up my eyes
It's a safe invitation, God I'm too afraid to try
So I hunt in this garden for a better place to hide

Cause I'm not right, no I'm not all right
I'm not right, no I'm not all right

It's an empty existence for what I can explain
Not gonna go any further without peeling back the pain
I'm so ready to let go, release all the years of shame

Well, I'm all right, yeah I'm all right
I'm all right, yeah I'm all right
