

I Will Always

Citizens

When the loves I thought were true
Divorce me
And when the shadows of death surround
And haunt me

I know I will always have you

When the ones I thought were safe
Abuse me
And when the colors of life all fade
Right from me

I know, I know
I know I will always have you

When the friends I held so dear
Betray me
And when I'm crying out loud for help
And I can't breathe

I know, I know
I know I will always have you

It's a battle in my head
To believe I don't need to architect
A fortress full of dogs
A defense that doesn't last at all
It's a funeral of sorts
I die each day for something more
This regeneration in my blood
It's the whispering voice of a holy dove

I know, I know
I know I will always have you
I know, I know
I know I will always have you