

All My Clothes

Civil Twilight

Out of the confusion, out of the ocean
She rose to the light, but never to see me
The rhythm and the flow, how do I let her know?
How do I explain the pathway to the sea?

I wanna take off all my clothes and be the truth
I wanna take off all my clothes for you

The heat of the window pane, the tingle of the rain
The voice of harmony sings to the full moon
The shoelace strings, the melody begins
The trembling hand conducting the symphony

I wanna take off all my clothes that you've never seen
I wanna take all these rags off of me
I wanna be the warmth you feel from far away
I wanna take off all these things away

How many scars will it take to remind us
How many scars will it take to remind us
That love is blindness
That love is blindness

I wanna be the winter breeze that carries you home
I wanna be the only heart you hold
I don't need to see the light to know what is true
I'm gonna take off all my clothes for you