The kids blew up the rafts and they're down there and sheet All running playing around paddling around pretending they're fishing having a good time. I gotta get it cleaned up you know what I'm saying. You guys pump that water out or do anything like that?

What caused it to flood?

I guess just cuz of the rain it all seeped through the walls. I come down it's all coming through the walls. You know we were watching football and we went down to the basement to get some beer and then came back up and say man that place is floooded know what I'm saying. I gotta get that cleaned up. I'm here and it's Wednesday kids is still swimming down there ain't gone to school or nothing. I ain't gonna be eating Thanksgiving dinner down there with all that water flooded all over the place. Tom Turkey be running down there slipping down the steps

How how deep's the water?

Uh the water's about up to my ankles. It's about four or five inches deep now. At first it was three feet when we first went down the kids were all swimming cuz I got a little kid five year old seven year old they just they thought it was the funniest thing. I imagine before we got down, it was up to maybe seven feet. It was deep! But now it's only a few inches. It's all good. But I gotta get that last few inches pumped out of there. Know what I'm saying?

What're you gonna do for it?

I'm going to give you money. Get that out of there, get that water out of there, keep that water and I give you money. Can't go wrong with that. Now you got yourself water and money for the job well done. Know what I'm saying?

What're you willing to pay to pay for this?

We got to make that turkey look good cuz the football game's coming on. Thanksgiving want to watch that, pray, and get all crazy and shit, know what I'm saying?
