And it's cold in here when you're all in tears Your vision is in black and white , you feel so afraid You fail to show your better half, it's such a shame Tomorrow's dream never comes , it remains in shades Remains in shades Sticks and stones break my bones and it hurts too much Easy come and easy go , in love and war all seems fair But's better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all Now I am holding ground Now I am safe and sound But it's the last straw that breaks my back and life's too shor Handsome is as handsome does and there's so much more A change is good as rest they say and all that glitters is not gold Now I am holding ground Now I am safe and sound No way I found love sane and sound And it's cold in here when you're all in tears Those endless nights of intrigues make it all too clear

In this dark world and wide I am innocent

I am innocent