

Better Me Better You

Clara Mae

You say my head's not in it
Can't take another minute
That's so typical
That's so typical, you
Leaving the sheets all messed up
Chaos or love just like us
That's so typical
So damn typical

Slam the door in my face and then threaten to leave me
You stay out for a while but you're back in the evening
The way you just shake it off
Like you don't care that much
Making up once again, and we're on, and we're even

I might leave to be someone for somebody else
All the things we left undone
So full of ourselves
I might leave to be someone for somebody else
So scared we'll find anew
A better me, a better you
A better me, a better you
A better me, a better you

Your mood is like sudden thunder
From nowhere a perfect summer
That's so typical
Yeah, that's so typical, you
Talk about your ambitions
Drink for a while and ditch them
That's so typical
So damn typical

Slam the door in my face and then threaten to leave me
You stay out for a while but you're back in the evening
The way you just shake it off
Like you don't care that much
Making up once again, and we're on, and we're even

I might leave to be someone for somebody else
All the things we left undone
So full of ourselves
I might leave to be someone for somebody else
So scared we'll find anew
A better me, a better you
A better me, a better you
A better me, a better you

I'm afraid to let go, we got everything to lose
Wonder if it is so, scared that we will find anew
Both afraid to let go, we've got everything to lose
Wonder if it is so, scared that we will find anew

I might leave to be someone for somebody else
All the things we left undone
So full of ourselves
I might leave to be someone for somebody else

So scared we'll find anew
A better me, a better you
A better me, a better you
A better me, a better you
A better me, a better you
