

Should've Known Better

Clean Bandit

I'm out of your control
There's nowhere left to hide
I packed my bags at midnight
To leave this mess behind
Me, myself and I
Have read between the lines
Left the engine running
I guess this is goodbye

And you're never gonna change my mind
We've been here about a thousand times
Should've never let you back inside
Inside my mind

I should've known better
Then to let you break my heart
I should've known better
I believed you from the start
And now we're wasting all this time
I should've known better
So I'm taking back my life

Should've known better than that
Ah, better
Should've known better than that
Ah, better
I should've known better than that

Looking back, I know
You had me hypnotised
Since I've got my senses
I see right through your lies
Now you're on your own
You call me every night
You're looking through our photos
But I deleted mine

And you're never gonna change my mind
We've been here about a thousand times
Should've never let you back inside
Inside my mind

I should've known better
Then to let you break my heart
I should've known better
I believed you from the start
And now we're wasting all this time
I should've known better
So I'm taking back my life

Should've known better than that
Ah, better
Should've known better than that
Ah, better
I should've known better than that

Finally you opened up my eyes

Why'd it take so long to see the light?
Now I'm gonna leave your ass behind

And you're never gonna change my mind
We've been here about a thousand times
Should've never let you back inside
Inside my mind

I should've known better
Then to let you break my heart
I should've known better
I believed you from the start
And now we're wasting all this time
I should've known better
So I'm taking back my life

Should've known better than that
Ah, better
Should've known better than that
Ah, better
I should've known better than that
