

The days keep slipping through my fingers
As I run my hands through the sand
The dream keeps calling
The feeling lingers
I carry these scars as far as I can
The moonlight whispering through the trees
I call it by name, begging please
Won't you take me back to that which waits for me

Cause there's no place like home
We make mistakes with second chances
Oh it seems we're not in Kansas anymore
They say I'm right where I belong
And we let it rain and we keep dancing
But I've left behind all that I've ever known
Life takes you places
Love brings you home

Love brings you home

Is it the white lines on the road
Or the ones that are on the table?
That drove me crazy made me turn this car around

For the feeling of my loved ones
Reaching out to someone
When the one they're looking for can't be found
A thousand miles from nowhere
The storm has made it so clear
That the dream I'm chasing has always been at home

Cause there's no place like home
We make mistakes with second chances
Oh it seems we're not in Kansas anymore
They say I'm right where I belong
We let it rain but we keep dancing
But I've left behind all that I've ever known
Life takes you places
Love brings you home

Love brings you home
